

As a frequent business flyer, I am totally against the proposed use of cell phones on aircraft. There are plenty enough examples of rude and obnoxious behavior by cell users - especially the speaker-phone type users - that the possibility of that occurring in cramped, confined space on a airplane should not even be considered.